

The Chandler Family Association

10 Ways You Can Support the CFA

1. Spread the word. Tell others, including family members and your local historical association or genealogy group, about the Chandler Family Association. A one-page CFA information sheet, available on our website, may be printed and distributed: chandlerfamilyassociation.org/docs/cfa_information_sheet.pdf.
2. Volunteer your time. Contact any member of the Executive Committee to ask about possibilities for volunteering, indicating roughly how many hours per week or per month you are willing to give, any particular skills you have (e.g., data entry, transcription, proofreading, executive assistant, web developer, business analyst, marketing communication, working with young people) and any restrictions (e.g., uncomfortable with computer work). There is an urgent need for hands-on volunteers who can devote some time to our on-going projects.
3. Tour our website at chandlerfamilyassociation.org. There are well over 100 pages of information about Chandler-related topics. A good way to tour the site is to visit the Site Index page: chandlerfamilyassociation.org/siteindex.html.
4. Contribute photos or helpful links. Contact Claudia Brocato with suggestions for the CFA website.
5. Check your family information in the CFA Lineages Database (CFALD). Contact Claudia Brocato to find out what information CFALD currently holds on your family.
6. Add to CFALD. Contact Claudia Brocato or Dick Chandler if you have additions or corrections for CFALD.
7. Write a newsletter article. We publish serious, lengthy genealogy articles, but we also need shorter stories, possibly about a beloved ancestor or a research adventure. There will be ample help with editing and documentation. Write Claudia Brocato to discuss possibilities.
8. Make a donation. Donations for research or for the CFA Jim Reeves Library will be gratefully accepted, appropriately acknowledged, and carefully used. To make a financial donation for research, click the Donations button on the website or contact Helen Chandler. Donations to the library can be either monetary or as additions to the library collection. If you can donate an item that might be appropriate for our library, please contact librarian James Chandler.
9. Put the CFA in your will. You can leave a lasting legacy for future Chandler researchers by adding a codicil to your current will or including the CFA when you update your will. Contact CFA president Jim Light to discuss options or ask questions.
10. Encourage gifts to the CFA. Let your family know that you would like the CFA to be a candidate for gifts in your honor or in your memory.

Note: Contact information for all members of the CFA Executive Committee can be found on the back cover of every newsletter and on the website.
